

Business School

UNIVERSITY OF COLORADO DENVER

The J.P. Morgan Center for Commodities
presents
Encana Distinguished Lecture Series
Risk and Expected Return in the Oil Markets
by Dr. Ehud I. Ronn

Thursday March 9
3:00 - 5:00 PM

1475 Lawrence St.
Denver, CO 80202

Food and Drink provided

RSVP here

<http://goo.gl/lmlzbp>

Risk and Expected Return in the Oil Markets

- The Oil Futures and Options Markets: What Do We Mean by the “Message from Markets”?
- While there is an abundance of prognosticators, consider a Financial-Economics Approach to Forecasting Spot Prices
- Where is the “Risk” (is the risk in upside or downside) in Oil-Price Movements, and How Does it Vary over Time?

Dr. Ehud I. Ronn is a Professor of Finance at The University of Texas at Austin McCombs School of Business. Dr. Ronn received his B.Sc. and M.Sc. from Technion, Israel Institute of Technology, and his Ph.D. from Stanford University. His research and teaching interests focus on the valuation of energy commodity-contingent securities.

J.P. Morgan Center for Commodities business.ucdenver.edu/commodities